

BETWEEN OR AROUND BUILDINGS: (sheds, garages, decks)

- especially between house and garage
- draw 2 adjacent buildings into a relationship with one another with fences or hedges for beds
- the minute you start seeing the space between 2 buildings as a volume rather than a void, you can begin to shape that space into a garden
- a shed can anchor gardens off all 4 sides
 - choose 1 side (south/west) to extend into herb or veggie garden
 - other sides can be smaller gardens or foundation plantings
 - hedges running parallel to walls create outdoor rooms
 - rectilinear buildings drive utilitarian rectilinear beds
 - a style of a building drives the style of the garden
