
MYSTERY:

unseen elements, heightens imagination, hide views so you don't see whole yard at once create rooms within rooms create doorways that lead into other rooms (arbors, gates, pergolas
add lighting add something unexpected shortest distance between 2 points is straight line (visually + physically), we see everything at once. Our eyes don't get joy of discovering journey.

- put some med/large airy, see through plants in front or middle of border to partially hide the view
- put lines on diagonal
- elements that enhance senses (sound, smell, sight) slow us down, and prolong garden experience
- partially obstruct views—screen, trellis, hedge
